About This Course

This course has an assignment that is due by 11:55 pm Central Standard Time on Wednesday night of the first week of class. Failure to complete this assignment will result in your removal from the course for non-participation.

Textbooks

Required:

Ruszkiewicz . How to Write Anything. Second Edition. New York: Bedford/St. Martin's, 2012. ISBN: 978-1-4576-0243-6

Optional:

A writing handbook is helpful, but is not required for this course

Course Description

This advanced course in composition is designed to relate to the specific needs and interests of upper-level students with an emphasis on argumentation and research skills. This course meets CMU's general education criteria for Foundational Advanced Writing.

Course Goals

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

- find existing sources of information on a topic using print and electronic resources;
- evaluate the accuracy and validity of information presented in a wide variety of media;
- cite sources in MLA/APA format and in accordance with CMU's Academic Conduct Policy;
- describe different rhetorical strategies and the importance of using different strategies for different audiences and purposes;
- write a logically developed, organized document or presentation using standard grammar, usage, mechanics, and spelling; and
- articulate ideas, both orally and in writing, clearly and logically for varied audiences and purposes.

About This Course

This is where you will find the course description, course objectives, and course textbook information.
